Peoples, and made an inspection of the beautiful and elegant stock of chinaware, crockeryware and glassware which that gentleman has just received. Mr. Peoples has recently added this business to his establishment, and intends making it a specialty. His assortment is very large, and presents a handsome display, indeed. His prices, too, are remarkably low. Persons desiring to make Christmas presents should inspect his stock.

Miss Charlotte Gaillard died at the resi-Miss Charlotte Gaillard died at the residence of her brother-in-law, Mr. Samuel Brown, in this city, on last Friday night about 10 o'clock, after an illness of several months from consumption. Miss Gaillard was a daughter of the late Dr. C. L. Gaillard, and was about 45 years of age. She was a most estimable lady, and noted for her Christian character and kind and affectionate disposition. After appropriate and impressive funeral services on Saturday alternoon, conducted by Bishop Howe and Rev. T. F. Cadsden, in Grace Episcopal Church, of which she was a member, her remains were laid to rest in the Baptist Cemetery.

Mr. G. Ernest Brown came near meeting with a tatal accident on last Thursday. He was riding horseback down River street, and when near Dr. McFall's his horse became frightened and started at full speed down the street. In trying to check the horse the curb-chain broke, and of course he had no further control over the animal. After running some distance the saddle girth give away, which precipitated Mr. Brown to the ground, stunning him and rendering him speechless for two or three hours. Beyond this, however, no serious damage was done, and Mr. Brown was able to be at his place of business on Friday morning.

morning.

"The Anderson INTELLIGENCES approves our remark that it would pay for the Air Line Railroad to be changed back to the original survey, and says: "Suppose we agitate the question, and if the Air Line is not changed, we can build a railroad from Anderson, via Hartwell and Athens, to Atlanta. What says the Sun!" We are ready. Cut your patching. A glance at the map is enough to show the importance and easy practicability of the route. It would be an air line, and through one of the finest cotton growing sections in the States of Georgia and Carolina. It would be of immense advantage to the country and cities mentioned, and would be another safeguard against freight discriminations. An article or two from such practical engineers as Maj. Thos. B. Lee might give the project proper prominence in the right quarters."—Harthcell Sun.

quarters."—Harticell Sun.

On last Monday a warrant was placed in the hands of Constable T. E. James for the arrest of a negro named Frank Moon, who had committed an assault upon a gentleman residing in Brushy Creek township. After diligent search, Moon was found at the gin house on the plantation of Mr. J. C. Whitfield, four miles North of the city, about 12 o'clock at night. Mr. James, knowing the character of the negro, presented his pistol at him, and requested him to surrender, which he did without any resistance. Mr. James then handed his pistol to some one behind him, and immediately began placing hand-cuffs on the prisoner. While in the act of doing this, some person fired a pistol, the ball striking the prisoner on the left cheek, ranging up the side of the face and through the ear. The wound is a painful one, though not serious. Mr. James was accompanied by several other gentlemen, none of whom knew who fired the pistol, as it was very dark, and they only had a small torch for a light. Mr. James thinks, however, that when he handed this pistol behind him, a brother of the prisoner. Alf. Moon, who was standing near, took it. He also thinks that the shot was fired at him, with a view of rescuing the prisoner. Alf. Moon, immediately after the pistol was fired, left the premises, and has not been heard of since. The next morning the pistol was found on the ground near the gin house. The above facts are given as they were told the reporter.

Fire at Belton

Belton.

Belton, S. C., Nov. 25.

Mr. Editor: The gin house of Mr. E. B.
Rice, in this place, was destroyed by fire on the afternoon of Thursday, 23rd inst.
The House was also occupied by Mr. E. T.
Tolleson and J. Lee Thompson as a work shop, each of whom lost in tools, material and unfinished work about $75 apiece. Mr.
Rice's loss will foot up about $1,800, consisting of the house, gin, feeder and condenser, press, scales, damage to his engine, about 2½ bales of cotton, about 1,500 bushels of cotton seed, 150 yards of bagging, an extra feeder and brush wheel, a lot of belting and buggy wheels, vices and work benches, on which there was no insurance.
The fire occurred about 3 p. m., and was benches, on which there was no insurance. The fire occurred about 3 p. m., and was caused by the ignition of a match near the press box. It is supposed that the match was dropped by some one and ignited by one of the workmen at the press.

Mr. Rice was painfully but not seriously burned about the face and hands while endeavoring to subdue the fire. No one else was injured.

was injured.

There were three bales of cotton damaged by the fire besides the ones already mentioned. About sixty bales were saved, which were ready packed and lying around the press. The wind fortunately was blowing from the Southwest, which carried the fire away from the surrounding building and prevented further loss. J. B. L.

The Man For Speaker.

From the Greenville Daily News. From the Greenville Daily Neur.

The fittest man yet named for the Speakership of the State House of Representatives is E. B. Murray, of Anderson. He will safely undergo the keenest scrutiny of his character and qualifications, and we do not know of a test that can be properly applied to one asking the office which he will not satisfy.

His natural ability is unquestioned, his integrity beyond question or doubt, and his long service as a member of the Legislature has given him an experience in parliamentary law and usage which, combined with his well known characteristics of close, careful study, energy and tics of close, careful study, energy and diligence, makes his equipment for the work of the speakership complete and perfect.

He is one of the twenty-nine survivors of the one handred and twenty-four members of the last House. He is the only old member re-elected from his county, and was nominated at the head of the ticket in the first of the four ballots of the primary election. That is the most eloquent and convincing testimony possible of the respect and confidence felt for him by those who know him best, and who have been directly represented by him. He is a young man, and a straightout Democrat of the progressive wing of the party. As one of the leaders of the movement that nominated Hugh S. Thompson and overthrew the embryomachine, he is an appropriate leader for a House composed of new men elected to carry the State forward, cancel the errors of the past and act in the light of to-day. In his locality, his character, his business, his record and his aims he is identified with progress and success, and hostility to moss-backs and their policy.

The up country is entitled to the office, and has no man as well filled for it by character and circumstances as Mr. Murray. His principal opponent, Col. Jas. Simons, of Charleston, is identified with the combination broken and defeated by the Democratic convention at Columbia, and should be put back with the other portons of it. perfect.

He is one of the twenty-nine survivors

the combination broken and defeated by the Democratic convention at Columbia, and should be put back with the other portions of it.

One of the chief blessings of our politics is that the qualifications of our aspirants for office inside of our party can be discussed without necessity for personal attacks. Col. Simons is a worthy gentleman and a true man, but his identification with the Konnedy combination (reported to exist and never denied) and his further identification with the policy that ruined the legislation of the last session, relegated four-fifths of its members to private life, received the emphatic reprobation of the people and that it is clearly proven will wreck the party if followed further, give reasons enough why he should be kept on the floor.

Let every Democrat in the Legislature who can read the signs of the times and learn from that reading, and who wishes to see the party strong and the State move forward, vote first, last and every time for E. B. Murray of Anderson for speaker. We need a live House and a live man at the head of it very bedly.
